Acknowledging Australia’s First Nations people

The 15th International Congress on Mathematical Education will be held in Sydney on the traditional lands of the Gadigal people. The Gadigal are a clan of the Eora Nation, which was the name given to the coastal First Nations Australian peoples living around modern-day Sydney. ‘Eora’ means ‘here’ or ‘from this place.’

The Eora Nation were saltwater people who lived on the rich resources of the harbour and rivers. There were over thirty clan groups among the Eora, and several languages were spoken including Darug and Dharawal.

Prior to the arrival of the British First Fleet in 1788, the ancestors of the Eora had lived in this region for over 60,000 years. Despite the destructive impact of first contact with the British, Eora culture survived. Many places around the harbour remained important hunting, fishing, and camping grounds for the Eora long after British settlement, and continue to be culturally significant today.

We acknowledge the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation as the Traditional Custodians of the Country that ICME-15 will be held upon. We recognise their continuing connection to the land and waters, and thank them for protecting this coastline and its ecosystems since time immemorial. We acknowledge that they never ceded sovereignty. We pay our respects to Elders past, present, and emerging, and extend that respect to all First Nations people present during ICME-15.
It is an honour and a great pleasure for me to invite you to what will be a truly unique and exciting event for mathematics and statistics education in Australia and the Asia-Pacific region.

The successful bid to host ICME-15 in Sydney in 2024 is the work of the Consortium for Mathematics Education (CoME), a group of eight leading national organisations in the mathematical sciences and education space. I had the privilege of leading the work of CoME in recent years, and was honoured to accept the nomination as Convenor of ICME-15.

The broad base of commitment for this initiative is a clear indication of the importance these leading organisations ascribe to supporting the further development of mathematics and statistics education.

CoME members are determined to engage and involve colleagues across the region in order to make ICME-15 an important opportunity for mathematics teachers, lecturers, researchers, teacher educators, consultants, leaders, curriculum developers and other mathematics education professionals in Australia and across the Asia-Pacific region. Our aim is for ICME-15 to be an inclusive event at which people who are passionate about mathematics and statistics education can come together, and connect with like-minded colleagues from around the globe – to create lasting local, regional and global legacies in our field.

Kim Beswick
Convenor ICME-15 2024
The 15th International Congress on Mathematics Education (ICME-15) will be held over 8 days at the International Convention Centre (ICC), Sydney from 7 – 14 July 2024.

ICME-15 is the largest international conference on Mathematics Education and is the meeting point for some 3,000+ mathematics educators, mathematicians, researchers, teachers and resource producers over eight days. This will be the first in-person ICME in eight years. There is a huge amount of excitement and anticipation as a result.

Our aim is for ICME-15 to be an inclusive event at which people who are passionate about mathematics and statistics education can come together, and connect with like-minded colleagues from around the globe — to create lasting local, regional and global legacies in our field.

ICME-15 in Sydney will offer participants an innovative congress that builds on the well-established ICME program, headed by a blend of established and emerging thought leaders from around the world. The congress will provide an exhibition component that promises to be interactive, relevant and dynamic, with hands-on demonstrations and presentations.

ICME-15 delegates will enjoy state-of-the-art meeting spaces, and technologies that provide enhanced networking capability. Delegates will be able to enjoy a seamless and hassle-free visitor experience in Sydney, a destination that consistently ranks as one of the world’s most desirable cities in which to live and work.
